

charismatic comedy feast that unleashes the imagination and defies description. His performance invites student interactions and gives students the opportunity to ask questions. Further enriching this opportunity, Post performed for the entire school on Oct. 26.

Holly May, the coordinating English teacher for the program, facilitated the students in writing reflections that address the use of sequence and creative problem solving, logical order, compare and contrast to discuss different aspects of

there was a living museum complete with dents acting as docents and guiding visitors through each week's critical thinking writing performing objectives. Students participate an open rehearsal guided by Andrejco demonstrated their circus and slapstick sl with their physical education teachers. reflective writing they did week by week also on display in binders for all to see. forum invited visitors to wander, observe participate.

Mountain Road School holiday fair

NEW LEBANON — The Mountain Road School's charming, cozy classrooms in a historic Shaker building will be transformed into a wintry wonderland of creativity, artistry and beautiful crafts for its annual Holiday Fair 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 12.

Luscious desserts and savory meals will be served in the Mountain Road "cafe." Fun and engaging arts and crafts activities will be happening as will singing and caroling for all ages. A multitude of vendors will be selling their wares and great bargains can be found in "white elephant" sale room.

There will be visits from the Pocket Lad gingerbread house workshop, where individuals can decorate their own gingerbread house and more.

The Mountain Road School is located on the NY/Massachusetts border in New Lebanon. For more information, contact the school at (518) 794-8520 or visit info@mountainroadschool.org.

From Tech Valley to Afghanistan with love

Tech Valley High School students are sending their love and good wishes to troops in the Middle East. Students signed a pair of Christmas cards Monday, Dec. 7 and mailed them to a location in Maryland where volunteers collect Christmas cards and send them to troops in Afghanistan and Iraq. TVHS Nurse Shellee St. Denis oversaw the TVHS effort after learning of it through a community group. Pictures from left are Tech Valley High School Juniors Lisabeth Kelly from Ichabod Crane, Denis, Cody Rogers from Green Island and Mandi Jung from Coxsackie Athens.